Becoming a Fair Housing Tester

New Jersey Citizen Action, a HUD designated Fair Housing Agency, is hiring paid per diem Fair Housing Testers to help make sure people are not being denied housing because of their race, color, national origin, religion, sex, disability or familial status. We are hiring a diverse group of testers to investigate housing discrimination within New Jersey.

Trained testers pose as renters or home buyers and visit housing providers to collect information and document their experiences to assist with regional monitoring and investigations.

Requirements for becoming a tester:

Attention to detail and excellent writing skills

Private email

Access to a reliable form of transportation

Attend a tester training

Submit to a NJ state criminal background check

Testers are paid a $75 rental test stipend and are reimbursed for mileage and tolls. Testers can work days, weekends and/or evenings.
